1. Welcome

Congratulations on joining NovaTech Enterprises Pvt Ltd. This Onboarding Guide walks you through what to expect during your first 30, 60, and 90 days, and outlines the key steps, people, and resources that will help you settle in quickly and start contributing with confidence.

2. Before Your First Day

- You will receive a joining kit email from HR with your offer letter, joining checklist, and list of documents to carry on Day 1 (original ID proof, education certificates, previous employment relieving letter, and passport-size photographs).
- Your reporting manager will be notified of your joining date and will share a welcome note ahead of your start.
- IT will provision your Company email account, laptop, and system access requests in advance so they are ready on Day 1.

3. Day 1: Orientation

Your first day begins with a Company-wide orientation session covering NovaTech's history, mission, organizational structure, and key policies. You will receive your laptop, ID card, and HRMS login credentials, and complete statutory documentation including PF nomination and medical insurance enrollment forms. You will also meet your reporting manager and be introduced to your immediate team.

4. Week 1: Getting Set Up

- Complete mandatory compliance trainings: Code of Conduct, IT Security Awareness, and POSH Awareness, all accessible via the Learning Portal.
- Set up your development environment or role-specific tools with support from your team's onboarding buddy.
- Schedule introductory 1:1 meetings with your manager and key cross-functional stakeholders.
- Review your role's goals and expectations for the first 90 days with your manager.

5. First 30 Days: Learning the Ropes

During your first month, the focus is on learning - understanding the team's current projects, Company tools and processes, and building relationships with colleagues. Your manager will assign an onboarding buddy, typically a peer in your team, to help answer day-to-day questions informally. You will also have a 30-day check-in with HR to share early feedback on your onboarding experience.

6. Days 30-60: Building Momentum

By this stage, you should be taking on meaningful individual contributions with growing independence. Your manager will provide more detailed feedback on your performance against initial expectations and help calibrate goals for the remainder of your probation period.

7. Days 60-90: Full Contribution

By the end of your first 90 days, you are expected to be operating with a good understanding of your role, team, and the Company's ways of working. Your manager will conduct a formal 90-day review, which feeds into your probation confirmation assessment at the six-month mark, as outlined in the HR Policy.
